The aggressive Tyger lineman not only holds the distinction of being the first Mansfield player ever selected on the All-Ohio team, but wins the unique honor of being the only sophomore ever selected for the team, as well as the smallest man on the 1934 eleven.

Only one other Tyger ever received mention on an all-star scholastic eleven. Dick Miller, now a freshman at Ohio U., was honored on the second team last year.

In addition, the midget guard was the only Tyger, as well as the only N. C. O. conference player, to receive mention on the team selected by the coaches representative of the various scholastic sections of Ohio.

Play Featured All Tyger Games.

BUCHER was outstanding in all of the Tyger games and gave a gallant exhibition of courage in the Sandusky affray in which he played all of the second half with a severe clear wound that necessitated the application of eight clamps.

He was a quick, hard-charging guard, who played a slum-bang type of football. He was unequalled in the conference, both as an offensive and defensive player.

Paired with Bucher at the guards on the all-Scholastic team is Claude White, 170-pound Portsmouth terror. Jim Whitten of Akron South, on the second All-Ohio last year, and ARBUST MORINGSTAR, powerful 185-pound captain of the sensational Massillon club, are placed at the ends.

At the tackles, the team is bolstered by Nick Cannarozzi of the championship Cleveland Collinwood eleven and Edward Mann of the titular Toledo Central club.

Sluke Gill of Youngstown Campbell Memorial was selected as the center on the mythical club in preference to such other

Team's Backfield Coach's Dream.

THE backfield is a coach's dream. It possesses powerful, elusive triple-threat performers, all of whom were outstanding on their particular teams.

The brilliant LaMar Krueger of Sandusky is placed at quarterback, with Horace Hampton, a colored lad of Steubenville, and Pete Ballos of Canton McKinley at the halfback. The fullback assignment is given to Harold Stapleton, Hamilton triple-threat who ran rampant over south-western Ohio gridiron this fall.

On the second team, the coaches placed Huberman, Youngstown Rayen and Schneider, Ravenna, ends; Wertigan, Canton McKinley, and Clair, Hamilton, tackles; Mitty, Steubenville, and Thom, Sandusky, guards; Grass, Sandusky, center; Dutton, Massillon; McAfee, Ironton; Zurbeglio, Dover and Lundblad, Cleveland Collinwood, backs.

Third team: Reiser, New Philadelphia, and Amuller, Dover, ends; Burges, Massillon, and Scott, Canton McKinley, tackles; Ady-niec, Steubenville and Pachell, Youngstown Rayen, guards; Sullivan, Steubenville, center; Sabbath, Cleveland East; Colangelo, Youngstown East; Elight, Akron North, and Glass, Massillon, backs.
