COLUMBUS—Out of the more than 15,000 youngsters playing football in Ohio's high schools, there emerged today the first annual Associated Press all-Ohio scholastic squad—the top-flight stars selected with the aid of expert opinion offered by sports writers and coaches.

Boasting a line averaging 186 from end to end, and a backfield of passing and punting half-toters stacking up at a 166-pound average, the first string is really the realization of a coach's dream.

The ends are six feet three inches tall, pass-snatchers de luxe and fine defensive men.

Tackles Weigh 200.

The tacklers, each a six-footer weighing nearly 200, have the power to open holes, towering defensive strength, and speed to handle down-field assignments.

The guards, each five feet nine, have the speed necessary to knife through opposing lines, or draw out to help the interference. The center, a rugged fighting type, was heralded as the best pass defense pivot man in the scholastic brigade.

Behind that wall is Hillis Hume of Alliance at quarterback, the only junior to make the team. At halfbacks are Tony Wolodzko of Elyria and Al Hoover of Toledo Scott, with Vince Snyder, captain of the Massillon Tigers, at fullback.

That backfield has everything, speed, power, elusiveness, passing and kicking skill, defensive strength, and brains.

Here's what the coaches and sports writers had to say about the first stringers:

Ends: Clyde Redding of Portsmouth—fine pass-catcher, brilliant defensive player, vicious blocker, high-ranking student; Nick Roman of Canton McKinley—chief cog in Bulldog defense, three-year star, fine pass-receiver, good student.

Tackles: James Anders, Sandusky—fast charger and good blocker; best of great line which did not allow a point from scrimmage; Eugene Young, Hamilton—most of Hamilton's points made through holes he opened; good defensive player.

Guards: Lynn Houston, Massillon—outstanding defensive player on Tiger team. Never saw a game until he played opener in 1937, but hasn't missed since; Harry Hyde, Warren—smartest line man at Warren in years; small, but specializes in breaking through to toss runners for loss.

Center: Lawrence Maidens, Galion—one of big reasons Galion was undefeated. Averaged three pass interceptions per game. Strong offensive player and good student.

Backs: Hillis Hume, Alliance—a smart general, good kicker and passer, and exceptional runner; scored 144 points, and was only player able to score twice against Canton McKinley. Al Hoover, Toledo Scott—best back in Toledo; fine runner and line-plunger; top-notch blocker and defensive man; and top-flight student. Tony Wolodzko of Elyria—triple-threat star of first water, endorsed unanimously by coaches and writers who saw him in action. Vince Snyder of Massillon—captain of state championship claimants; served as blocking back two years, but carried ball this season to lead team in scoring; called signals from fullback berth; high-ranking student.

Harmon Unplaced.

Backing up that array of talent are players from everywhere
